

New house, Newquay, Cornwall

A luxurious five bedroomed house completed in February 2010. The design deliberately reduces the mass of this large house by essentially dividing it into three interconnected parts each having internally a different focus in its arrangement of accommodation which includes a games room, a pool room and a garden room. The contemporary character reflects its coastal location with principle rooms arranged to take full advantage the cliff-top location and the magnificent views of the bay it commands.
